

FISHING: A RICH TRADITION

With the Blood Indian dam constructed in 1965 and stocked annually with rainbow trout, and now brook, brown, and tiger trout, our reservoir is a great family fishing destination. Despite the challenges posed by invasive species, the spirit of angling thrives here.

PRESERVE AND ENJOY

We are stewards of the land and guardians of our history. Help us preserve the beauty of Blood Indian Park by following our guidelines:

- + Respect wildlife and plant life.
- + Follow the graveled roads and designated trails.
- + Block your unit up to level it. Do not dig holes.
- + If there is not an existing fire pit at your campsite, do not make a new one.
- + All boats on trailers (except those that can be carried) must be launched and loaded at one of the designated boat launches.
- + No ATV's are to be used in the Park.
- + Keep pets under control and clean up after them.
- + Observe quiet hours from 11:00 p.m. to 7:00 a.m. for the peace of all guests.
- + 60/30 RULE: Only generators rated 60 decibels at 30 feet, allowed.
- + When Fire Hazard rating permits the use of fireworks, it is restricted to the shoreline of the East, West, and North Blocks.

Non-compliance is deterred by eviction and/or fines.

EMBRACE THE GREAT OUTDOORS

Blood Indian Park offers an array of activities for everyone:

THE LEGEND OF BLOOD INDIAN CREEK

Discover the captivating story passed down through generations about the creek that runs red. In the early 19th century, a fierce battle led by an "Old Lady" of the Salteaux tribe against the Blackfeet raiders painted the creek with the echoes of their courage. This battle not only gave the creek its name but also left us with a legacy of strength and determination.
